

History of the Lassen Street Church of Christ

The church is the body of Christ and the body of Christ is the church of Christ.

Paul refereed to the body of Christ on numerous occasions as: "He is the head of the body, the church" (Colossians 1:18).

The spiritual church that Jesus built began AD 30.

The earthly church is the group of people who have humbled themselves under the mighty hand of God and rendered obedience to His will for their lives, not the earthly building itself. The building is simply the "meeting place" where the body of Christ comes together to worship. The earthly church at Lassen Street began September 1959.

The original members first met together on September 6th, 1959 and were known as the Sepulveda Church of Christ. They came from the Winnetka congregation, the San Fernando congregation and other congregations around the area; some people seeking a more central location. The first location was at the Northridge Military Academy, a U shaped building located on the North West corner of Parthenia Street at Hayvenhurst Avenue. As of 2016, that building is still there. They met in the dining hall on the North East side. Bible classes were in a couple of classrooms across the front of the U shape building. There was a gospel meeting that first week to get things started. The guest preacher has been remembered as one of the Lovelady brothers, probably Ronny. Both Ronny and his brother Glenn were gospel preachers at the time.

After several years, they moved to the Northridge Woman's Club building at the corner of Canby Avenue and Gresham Street. It was a white frame building which is no longer there. This building seems to be referred to by some people as the Performing Art Center. It had a stage in it and probably got that name from the stage. On February 22-25, 1962, there was a debate on the "issues" of the 1950's between Bob Melear and Hoyt Chastain on that stage; the two preachers on stage, each at a table with a podium between, and a timekeeper with a bell. This building had an outbuilding that was being used for classes. Eventually, the city informed them that the outbuilding needed to be brought up to code. Since this was too expensive and the congregation had grown to the point where more room was needed, a new building was planned.

Sometime around 1963/65, property was purchased at 16324 Lassen Street, Sepulveda, California (now North Hills) and the building was constructed. Since this building was located on Lassen Street it became known as the Lassen Street Church of Christ.

This property was a farming residence with a swimming pool below the house. The farm house was to be used for the preacher residence. The swimming pool was filled in which is now below the upper parking lot. The building was built at the time when the San Fernando Valley was in the process of being developed. Many of the members were in the construction trade, so they became a source of building expertise with a lot of donated labor and materials. The property contained a plot of land behind the house which was not needed and was sold to help finance the building, probably in 1970ish. A contractor bought that plot and split it into 2 lots. There is a block wall separating the plot from the church property.

In 1988, the outside classroom building was constructed due to the lack of sufficient classroom space for the many classes that were going on. The main source of financing for this building came from a deceased member who left a substantial amount of money to the church.

The phone number (213) 892-0533 has never changed except for the area code (818) 892-0533. Bob Melear was the first preacher at the Northridge Military Academy and the Northridge Woman's Club. Don Wilson was the next preacher at the Northridge Woman's Club location. He continued preaching after the new building was completed.

Over the years, the church has supported as many as seven outside preachers at one time. The list of preachers would change periodically as their needs changed. This continued until June 2008 when the congregation lost a lot of members and, therefore, the treasury went to a level where the church could no longer provide this support.

The first location was at the corner of Hayvenhurst Avenue and Parthenia Street
The Northridge Military Academy; it is still there with another name

The second location was at the corner of Canby Avenue and Gresham Street. This was the Northridge Woman's Club and is no longer there

The final location 16324 Lassen Street

First, second and final locations

Just as an interesting part of history, there are two pictures sent to me from Andy Zuckerman who lived in the area before the church building was built. They do not show the church property but do show some of the area around where the building was built. I am including them with Andy's permission.

1st is the property directly East of the church property where the Los Angeles Baptist school was built.

2nd is the street above and south of the church property.

My thanks to those individuals who supplied information to me. Since I was not an original member, I did not know about this early history. I am the only remaining member of those who were here in 1967 when I first came. I have been asked by current members about this early history which prompted me to do this research.

This document is not complete, as most of the history is lost. I have contacted some of the original members to ask for any information they can give me either from memory or from documentation they might have kept. What I have was created from financial information starting in 1986, from old bulletins that I have kept for various reasons and information from some of those original members.

If anyone viewing this document has any additional or corrective information, please send an email to me at lassen@lassenstcoc.com or put a message on our Facebook page. I would appreciate it immensely.

Thanks for any help you can give me,

Loren Peacock
